It is estimated that by 2030, the Greater Bay Area (GBA) is expected to play a leading role in advanced manufacturing, innovation, shipping, trade and finance.

The road to workplace mobility helped by economic cooperation in GBA opens up exciting opportunities for career progression.

In addition to new roles being created, recruiting experts see growth in existing positions – particularly for relationship managers within the corporate and commercial banks.

With the GBA set to become a technology hub, new positions being created for data scientists, cloud architects and blockchain specialists, as well as expanding roles for designers engaged in the research and development of innovative technologies – such as user experience, user interface and solutions engineers. Logistics and creative industries alongside financial services and technology are sectors most likely to benefit from the GBA development.

Our speakers will share with you how Hong Kong graduates should prepare and well equip themselves to fulfil their dreams to these exciting career opportunities ahead.
