

Ralitsa Rizvanolli

Partner, Head of Investments

Ralitsa is accountable for investment selection, execution and monitoring of investments for Sarona's funds and impact mandates on behalf of third-party clients such as governments and non-profit organizations. Ralitsa ensures that ESG and impact are embedded into the investment process. Ralitsa is passionate about deepening the gender lens and climate risk assessment capabilities at Sarona, believing that investing with both lenses leads to better financial and sustainability outcomes. Prior to Sarona, Ralitsa was an investment manager at Triple Jump. Ralitsa built a portfolio of private equity and fixed income investments primarily in Africa and MENA for a fund of funds (Dutch Good Growth Fund) funded by the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Prior to that Ralitsa was a Portfolio Manager with responsibility for credit risk analysis and top-down allocation for microfinance funds. She started her career in microfinance, holding various positions at MIX Market, a data and market intelligence platform for the microfinance industry. Ralitsa holds a B.A. in International Relations from Pomona College in California and an M.A. in International Development from Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies. Ralitsa was born and raised in Bulgaria and has spent extensive time working and living in emerging markets including Albania and Mexico. Ralitsa currently heads Sarona's Singapore office.
